

COLUMBIA SPECTATOR ARCHIVE

Columbia Daily Spectator, Volume CXIV, Number 77, 14 February 1990 — Columbia Daily Spectator To Love
[ARTICLE+ILLUSTRATION]

Shall I compare thee to 'a summer's day?

Thou art more steamy and more passionate.

Even with condom machines in John Jay

Love like ours finds it rough to hold back and wait.

Sometimes too hot my blood flows
within me,

For to you my pulse pounds and will not be calm.

Yet, in these times of AIDS we all agree-

'Tis better to have loved—with a condom.

To love, to love ere seems a student's fate.

And today, day of love, we must recall
That lesson passed over in LitHum for Plat':

Loving unsafely fills the soul with gall.
So long as Alma keeps court on Low,
So long my love for you, my sweet, doth grow.

With deepest apologies to William Shakespeare.

